

Members of the ADAA may now earn

FELLOWSHIP IN THE ADAA

Long a standard of professional achievement, Fellowship in one of America's healthcare organizations has been a coveted level of professional recognition; a recognized, accepted accomplishment among one's peers.

The American Dental Assistants Association offers the Fellowship category within its membership. And, there are two paths to this goal: clinical and business.

Fellowship, of course, is available only to members and only to those with documented educational achievements.

Thousands of dental assisting professionals have proven their skill and dedication through earning the Certified Dental Assistant or Registered Dental Assistant credential. In addition, ADAA is offering a challenging path to:

- Increased value to your patients and practice
- Enhanced confidence in your dental assisting capabilities
- Public recognition of professional achievement
- Increased professional status
- Satisfaction of increased education
- Enhancement of self esteem

Doctors take pride in a confident, educated team member. This recognition and its aura of proven skills contributes to in-house marketing efforts, shorter start up time for the new employee and reduced staff turnover.

ADAA Fellows may earn

MASTERSHIP IN THE ADAA

....the next move in professional achievement for ADAA Fellows.

Now that you have achieved the level of Fellowship in the ADAA, we urge you to consider the merits and benefits of ADAA Mastership.

Your challenge in approaching Mastership will include the expansion of topics studied for the Fellowship program with an emphasis on the new technology in dentistry.

As with the Fellowship program, there are benefits for you, for the practice with which you are affiliated

Most importantly, patients benefit from a self-assured, well educated team member, confident of his or her contribution to the dental team effort.

In order to become a Fellow of the ADAA, a dental assistant must be an Active member of the ADAA. Immediately following enrollment, the ADAA Active Member may begin accruing the 300 hours of continuing education credit required for completion.

Those who have already achieved the status of Certified Dental Assistant are halfway to achieving Fellowship, and will automatically receive 150 hours of credit upon enrolling. Non-CDAs holding Registered Dental Assistant status from a state may apply for RDA credit which could be awarded on a state-by-state basis according to established criteria. However, these RDA hours cannot be credited in addition to CDA hour awards.

Upon completing the Fellowship Program, successful applicants will be recognized at ADAA Annual Conferences. National recognition will be provided through the ADAA's professional journal and press releases. A record of all CE credit hours submitted will be held in ADAA's Fellowship files and as an extra benefit, each enrollee will receive an annual printout of CE submitted to ADAA during the year.

As the profession of dental assisting moves forward, you should move forward too. You should become a Fellow of the American Dental Assistants Association.

and for the dental health care consumer:

- Advanced knowledge leading to increased value to your patients and practice
- Enhanced confidence in your dental assisting capabilities
- Public recognition of professional achievement
- Increased self esteem

Put your experience and education to the challenge and become part of the ADAA's Mastership program. Experience the satisfaction of achievement.
